GIVE SCHOOLS THE RESOURCES THEY NEED TO KEEP KIDS HEALTHY
Did you know that 84 percent of children stay more physically active when they have safe and convenient places to play?

Schools provide those safe and convenient places. But in [STATE], many schools are overwhelmed by day-to-day responsibilities and don’t have the capacity to figure out how to make their facilities easily accessible to the community. When given incentives to enter into shared use agreements, schools have the support they need to provide facilities where kids, families, and the entire community can be active.

To learn how you can encourage your decision makers to give schools the resources they need to unlock their doors™ and keep kids healthy, sign up below and then visit [URL PLACEHOLDER] today.
Did you know that 84 percent of children stay more physically active when they have safe and convenient places to play?

Schools provide those safe and convenient places. But in [STATE], many schools are overwhelmed by day-to-day responsibilities and don’t have the capacity to figure out how to make their facilities easily accessible to the community. When given incentives to enter into shared use agreements, schools have the support they need to provide facilities where kids, families, and the entire community can be active.

To learn how you can encourage your decision makers to give schools the resources they need to unlock their doors and keep kids healthy, visit [URL PLACEHOLDER] today.